

Wade Neth can help you meet your financial goals.

But how many bankers know what to do when the grain bin's clogged?

IN BALDWIN COUNTY BANKING CIRCLES, THE NAME WADE NETH CARRIES A LOT OF WEIGHT. Maybe it's because he's earned a reputation for helping families and businesses here for more than 17 years.

But Wade's work ethic was established even before that—growing up on the family farm in Robertsdale.

Wade remembers the time the elevator dryer went out for a week—leaving him the job of chipping soybeans from the walls of a 10,000 bushel grain bin on a hot day.

If you live in Baldwin County, it's probably a good thing to have a banker who knows how to handle a pitchfork. And now, if you bank at First National, you can.
